Translation from Swedish "The first shown work is by Nandita Mukand from Singapore and consists of dried flowers. A work for which openart had gotten help from the people of örebro to gather the material. - We have collected both dried and fresh flowers since winter. One person even donated their wedding bouquet from 1971, says Kerstin Wagner, curator, and tells the story. - Her man had just died and she wanted to get rid of all the flowers she had collected, like the wedding bouquet, but she found it hard to do so, so when she saw that we were looking for flowers she thought this felt like a way to get rid of the flowers while feeling like they would be turned into something beautiful."
